Letter from the Pastor

I was recently reading a magazine published by a declining mainline protestant denomination. Suddenly it struck me: hardly anyone in these articles is mentioning Jesus or his title, "Christ." I went back to the beginning and did a quick word search. The results: in a 46 page Christian magazine, Jesus was mentioned five times, mostly in a single article by a seminary student, who used the awkward formulation "God, Jesus, and the Spirit" three times.

On the same lines, I was reading the website of a protestant congregation recently where the pastor was inviting everyone to come to a class called "Deconstructing Jesus."

Why are a lot of people—including members of mainline Christian denominations—having trouble with Jesus? Why do many Christians seem to want to separate the name "Jesus" from the word "God?" The reason is simple. Jesus is a specific person who makes exclusive claims for himself, such as "I am the way, the truth, and the life." God's Church affirms that "salvation is found in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given to mankind by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12). You can't get too far into Jesus without having to deal with these exclusive claims. In short, Jesus simply will not fit with today's universalism. Universalism is uncomfortable saying that Jesus is more authoritative than Allah, Buddha, or any other religious figure.

Universalism has been around for thousands of years. Now it is the pre-eminent faith of the western world. It has even replaced Jesus at the center of many mainline Christian congregations.

Universalism believes that in a perfect world, all things would be equal in value. Which would be true, if death were god. Universalism also claims a veneer of "science based" authority, but not because it follows science (which is created by God). Rather, it strangely claims "science" as a justification to reduce all things to moral equivalence. This mental habit of balancing everything out to zero is easy to teach and learn, and can even become a kind of religious faith. College students are being taught to see (and make) all things equal from the moment they step onto campus. The unquestioned assumption is that "if everyone was sensible, we would all speak and think like universalists."

Of course, we know that in real life, nothing in God's creation is equal, except in mathematics. So when universalists try to fix the world, they end up forcing everything and everyone into a mold where differences of background, differences in speech, differences of opinion, differences in morals, differences in ability, differences in economic circumstances, even differences in sex, all get squashed. Universalists' motives might be noble at first (e.g. to eradicate unfairness), but the end results of their actions are almost always misery and evil. In the wake of the destruction they create, universalists often sound like the character from Animal Farm, who explained his tyrannical actions by saying "All animals are equal... but some are more equal than others."

Believers need to be able to see through the enemy's current strategy and call it out. God created us all marvelously with different strengths and weaknesses, and we are all born into different circumstances. Whatever our current situation, strong or weak, God means to be glorified in us (see John 9:1-3). Jesus didn't come to fit us all into the same mold. He came to save us from the sameness that Satan wants to impose upon us. He loves our differences. He does not force us together. He unites us in worship around himself. Thank God, we do not depend on our ability to be broad-minded. We instead freely gather around a risen Savior who has paid the full price for our narrow-mindedness and sin. A Savior who, while we are dead in the grave of our self-righteousness, calls each of us by name to come out! A Savior whose love will not be bound by our zero-sum notions of justice, but who rather loves each individual infinitely.

Praise be to God in Jesus Christ that we broken sinners at St. John's have been redeemed, so that we can freely come together with all our wonderful God-given differences, and be part of the multi-limbed, multi-gifted Body of Christ (1 Cor 12:12-31)! Praise Jesus, that our differences will never, ever be erased, but will in the end ring out in symphonic beauty through all eternity to the praise of our loving Savior God!

Never be discouraged. (Joshua 10:25)

Thank you to ALL who have given items for this relief effort. We will continue collecting and without a foreseeable end date." ~ Bruce and Karen Whyte.

Quilters

Want to check us out? We always welcome visitors. If you can't or you don't want to come weekly, please come just once in a while. You may visit as long you wish. If you want to visit longer, bring your lunch and stay for a couple of hours.

We can furnish you with material to make a quilt at home for any charity. We have other activities that do not involve working with fabric. We do stamps for the Wounded Soldier Project and cards for the Cancer Thrift Shop any Tuesday. You may just come, sit for a while and join in the conversations. Your visit is always welcome. Remember, a visit is not a commitment.

We have empty chairs just waiting for you at the quilting frame if you are interested in learning to hand quilt.

Want to play with scissors? We need someone interested in cutting stamps for our Wounded Soldier Project. You may cut them on Tuesdays when we meet or take them home. The job is a sitting-and-working-at-your-own-pace job where you trim to a 1/4" around the stamp.

The Quilters are seeking new homes for two, older, cabinet sewing machines as we are downsizing. We also have two, heavy, portable sewing machines that we are unable to get to sew properly. They need someone more skilled at repairs than we are. Call the church to make an appointment to see the machines.

Please donate your used clothing to the Grove City Methodist "Purple Door" Church Free Store or other Grove City charities.

Quilters welcome you to come and visit. The Quilters meet every Tuesday from 9am to 2pm in rooms 103-104. All materials are provided.

"Let each of you look not only to his own interests, but also to interests of others." Philippians 2:4

A minister parked his car in a no-parking zone in a large city because he was short of time and couldn't find a space with a meter. Then, he put a note under the windshield wiper that read, "I have circled the block 10 times. If I don't park here, I'll miss my appointment. Forgive us our trespasses."

When he returned, he found a citation from a police officer along with this note, "I've circled this block for 10 years. If I don't give you a ticket, I'll lose my job. Lead us not into temptation."

Birthdays of the Month

New Life

My heart leaps with joy
After the long winter is done
When I see the flowers blooming
In the sun.

When the bulbs buried beneath the earth
Rise and burst into bud again,
All the questions I asked of God in the snowtime
Are answered in the blossoms of Spring!
